

THE LATER ROMAN EMPIRE

284-602

VOLUME ONE

A.H.M. JONES

TABLE OF CONTENTS

VOLUME I

Note on weights, measuring and currency, xv.

PART I : NARRATIVE

- I. THE PRINCIPATE—the Antonines, 1-15; the Severi, 15-20; the anarchy, 21-36.
- II. DIOCLETIAN—politics, 37-42; the administration, 42-52; the army, 52-60; finance, 61-8; the classes, 68-70; the Christians, 71-6.
- III. CONSTANTINE—usurpation, 77-9; conversion, 80-3; Constantinople, 83-4; the Caesars, 84-5; the Arian controversy, 85-9; Christians, pagans and Jews, 89-93; the emperor and the church, 93-7; the army, 97-100; the administration, 100-4; comites and senators, 104-7; finance, 107-10; baptism, 110-11.
- IV. THE HOUSE OF CONSTANTINE—wars, politics and religion 337-53, 112-15; wars, politics and religion 353-61, 115-19; Julian Caesar, 119-20; Julian Augustus, 120-4; the army, 124-6; the administration, 126-30; finance, 130-2; the senate of Constantinople, 132-3; the aristocracy, 133-6; Julian's achievement, 136-7.
- V. FROM JOVIAN TO THEODOSIUS I—Valentinian and Valens, 138-54; the sources, 154-6; Gratian and Theodosius I, 156-69.
- VI. THE HOUSE OF THEODOSIUS—the sources, 170-3; the emperors and their ministers, 173-82; the barbarians in the West, 182-92; the Huns and the Persians, 192-4; barbarian and Roman numbers, 194-9; the foederati, 199-202; the Eastern Roman army, 202-4; finance, 204-8; religious affairs, 208-16.
- VII. THE EASTERN EMPIRE FROM MARCIAN TO ANASTASIUS—Marcian, 217-21; Leo, 221-4; Zeno, 224-30; Anastasius, 230-7.
- VIII. THE FALL OF THE WESTERN EMPIRE AND THE BARBARIAN KINGDOMS—the sources, 238-40; the last emperors, 240-4; Odoacer and Theoderic, 245-8; the land settlement, 248-53; the Ostrogothic kingdom, 253-7; the Visigothic kingdom, 257-9; the Vandals, Burgundians and Franks, 259-62; Arianism, 262-4; the German kingdoms, 264-5.

- IX. JUSTIN I and JUSTINIAN—Justin I, 266-9; the wars 527-40, 269-78; legal and administrative reforms, 278-83; finance, 283-5; religion 527-42, 285-7; the wars 540-65, 287-94; administration and finance 541-65, 294-6; religion 542-65, 296-8; the balance sheet of the reign, 298-302.
- X. THE SUCCESSORS OF JUSTINIAN—Justin II, 303-6; Tiberius, 307-9; Maurice, 309-15; the collapse, 315-17.

PART II: DESCRIPTIVE

- XI. THE GOVERNMENT—the emperors, 321-9; the senate, 329-33; the consistory, 333-41; powers behind the throne, 341-7; formation of policy, 347-57; pressure groups, 357-65.
- XII. THE ADMINISTRATION—the comitatus, 366-73; dioceses and provinces, 373-7; tenure of offices, 377-83; choice of officers, 383-90; suffragium, 391-6; salaries and extortion, 396-401; centralisation, 401-6; efficiency, 406-10.
- XIII. FINANCE—the res privata, 411-27; the sacrae largitiones, 427-37; the currency, 438-48; the praetorian prefecture, 448-62; the incidence of taxation, 462-9.
- XIV. JUSTICE—the law, 470-9; the courts, 479-84; praescriptio fori, 484-94; delays and expenses, 494-9; the judges, 499-507; lawyers, 507-16; civil and criminal justice, 516-22.
- XV. SENATORS AND HONORATI—the aristocratic ideal, 523-4; ordo equester, comitiva and senate, 525-30; admission and precedence, 530-5; privileges and burdens, 535-42; the value of rank, 543-5; the social composition of the senate, 545-52; the geographical distribution of senators, 552-4; the wealth of senators, 554-7; otium senatoris, 557-62.
- XVI. THE CIVIL SERVICE—the origins of the service, 563-6; the sacred bedchamber, 566-72; the palatine ministries, 572-86; the praetorian prefecture, 586-92; vicariani and cohortales, 592-6; military and minor offices, 597-601; the character of the service, 601-6.
- XVII. THE ARMY—the army of the fourth century, 607-11; foederati, 611-13; the scholae, 613-14; recruitment of citizens, 614-19; recruitment of barbarians, 619-23; pay and equipment, 623-6; rations, 626-30; conditions of service, 630-3; promotion and discharge, 633-6; protectores, 636-40; officers, 640-6; morale and discipline, 646-9; the limitanei, 649-54; the army of the sixth century, 654-7; categories of troops, 657-68; recruitment and conditions of service, 668-79; numbers, 679-86.

- XVIII. ROME AND CONSTANTINOPLE—the two capitals, 687-9; administration, 689-92; police and fire, 692-5; food supply, 695-705; amenities, 705-8; public works and finance, 708-11.
- XIX. THE CITIES—number and size, 712-18; new foundations and old cities, 718-22; the people, 722-4; the council and magistrates, 724-31; civic finance, 732-4; civic services, 734-7; the curiales, 737-57; the decline of the councils, 757-63; provincial assemblies, 763-6.

VOLUME II

- XX. THE LAND—land use, 767-9; the importance of agriculture, 769-73; the peasant freeholder, 773-81; estates, 781-8; estate management, 788-92; hired labour and slaves, 792-5; coloni, 795-803; rents and services, 803-8; the condition of the peasantry, 808-12; agri deserti, 812-23.
- XXI. INDUSTRY, TRADE AND TRANSPORT—conditions of trade, 824-7; the navicularii, 827-30; the cursus publicus, 830-4; factories, quarries and mines, 834-9; the role of the state, 839-41; private transport, 841-4; objects of trade, 844-50; the slave trade, 851-5; the pattern of trade, 855-8; labourers and craftsmen, 858-64; merchants, 864-72.
- XXII. THE CHURCH—ancient custom, 873-4; bishoprics, 874-9; provinces, 880-3; patriarchates, 883-94; church finances, 894-904; the wealth of the church, 904-10; the lower clergy, 910-14; episcopal elections, 915-20; the social origins of the clergy, 920-9; monks and hermits, 929-33; church and state, 933-7.
- XXIII. RELIGION AND MORALS—pagans, 938-43; Jews and Samaritans, 944-50; heretics, 950-6; the growth of superstition, 957-64; doctrinal controversies, 964-70; pagan and Christian morals, 970-9; the church's failure, 979-85.
- XXIV. EDUCATION AND CULTURE—Latin and Greek, 986-91; native languages, 991-7; schools and teachers, 997-1002; the syllabus, 1002-4; Christianity and education, 1005-7; literary culture, 1007-12; doctors, architects and artists, 1012-16; public entertainments, 1016-21; the unity of the empire, 1021-4.
- XXV. THE DECLINE OF THE EMPIRE—East and West, 1025-7; the barbarians, 1027-31; political weaknesses, 1031-5; military defects, 1035-8; economic decline, 1038-40; depopulation, 1040-5; idle mouths, 1045-8; social weaknesses, 1049-53; administrative abuses, 1053-8; decline of morale, 1058-64; East and West, 1064-68.

MAPS—between 1069 and 1070

- i. The Severan Provinces, and the Dioceses and Provinces of the Verona List
- ii. Dioceses and Provinces according to the Notitia Dignitatum
- iii. Financial Districts, Treasuries, Mints and Factories in the early Fifth Century
- iv. The Order of Battle of the Roman Army
- v. The Distribution of Cities in the middle of the Fifth Century
- vi. The Empire of the last years of Justinian
- vii. Ecclesiastical Organization under Justinian

NOTES— 1071-1416

APPENDIX I—The largitiones and the res privata, 1417-28

APPENDIX II—The Notitia Dignitatum, 1429-50

APPENDIX III—Dioceses and Provinces, 1451-61

LIST OF COLLECTIONS AND PERIODICALS CITED, 1462-63

LIST OF SOURCES AND ABBREVIATIONS, 1464-76

INDEX, 1477

THE LATER ROMAN EMPIRE

284-602

VOLUME TWO

A.H.M. JONES

TABLE OF CONTENTS

VOLUME II

- XX. THE LAND—land use, 767-9; the importance of agriculture, 769-73; the peasant freeholder, 773-81; estates, 781-8; estate management, 788-92; hired labour and slaves, 792-5; coloni, 795-803; rents and services, 803-8; the condition of the peasantry, 808-12; agri deserti, 812-23.
- XXI. INDUSTRY, TRADE AND TRANSPORT—conditions of trade, 824-7; the navicularii, 827-30; the cursus publicus, 830-4; factories, quarries and mines, 834-9; the role of the state, 839-41; private transport, 841-4; objects of trade, 844-50; the slave trade, 851-5; the pattern of trade, 855-8; labourers and craftsmen, 858-64; merchants, 864-72.
- XXII. THE CHURCH—ancient custom, 873-4; bishoprics, 874-9; provinces, 880-3; patriarchates, 883-94; church finances, 894-904; the wealth of the church, 904-10; the lower clergy, 910-14; episcopal elections, 915-20; the social origins of the clergy, 920-9; monks and hermits, 929-33; church and state, 933-7.
- XXIII. RELIGION AND MORALS—pagans, 938-43; Jews and Samaritans, 944-50; heretics, 950-6; the growth of superstition, 957-64; doctrinal controversies, 964-70; pagan and Christian morals, 970-9; the church's failure, 979-85.
- XXIV. EDUCATION AND CULTURE—Latin and Greek, 986-91; native languages, 991-7; schools and teachers, 997-1002; the syllabus, 1002-4; Christianity and education, 1005-7; literary culture, 1007-12; doctors, architects and artists, 1012-16; public entertainments, 1016-21; the unity of the empire, 1021-4.
- XXV. THE DECLINE OF THE EMPIRE—East and West, 1025-7; the barbarians, 1027-31; political weaknesses, 1031-5; military defects, 1035-8; economic decline, 1038-40; depopulation, 1040-5; idle mouths, 1045-8; social weaknesses, 1049-53; administrative abuses, 1053-8; decline of morale, 1058-64; East and West, 1064-68.

MAPS—between 1069 and 1070

- i. The Severan Provinces, and the Dioceses and Provinces of the Verona List
- ii. Dioceses and Provinces according to the Notitia Dignitatum
- iii. Financial Districts, Treasuries, Mints and Factories in the early Fifth Century
- iv. The Order of Battle of the Roman Army
- v. The Distribution of Cities in the middle of the Fifth Century
- vi. The Empire of the last years of Justinian
- vii. Ecclesiastical Organization under Justinian

NOTES—1071-1416

APPENDIX I—The largitiones and the res privata, 1417-28

APPENDIX II—The Notitia Dignitatum, 1429-50

APPENDIX III—Dioceses and Provinces, 1451-61

LIST OF COLLECTIONS AND PERIODICALS CITED, 1462-63

LIST OF SOURCES AND ABBREVIATIONS, 1464-76

INDEX, 1477